Education Sponsorship Program FAQ

What is the Student Education Sponsorship Program?

The ILAT Global Summit Student Education Sponsorship Program provides sponsored Summit registrations for eligible students who would otherwise be unable to attend. Sponsorship support helps reduce financial barriers and expand access to high-quality ADHD education and training.

Who is eligible for a sponsored registration?

Students currently enrolled in an academic or professional training program relevant to future work in ADHD care, research, education, coaching, or related fields may apply. Applications require approval, and sponsorships are awarded as funding becomes available.

I'm a student. How do I apply for a sponsored registration?

Students may apply for a sponsored Summit registration by completing the Student Education Sponsorship Application form found at the bottom of the Registration Page. Applications are reviewed and approved as sponsorship funding becomes available. Receiving a sponsorship is not guaranteed, and students who are able to pay for their registration are encouraged to do so to help preserve available sponsorship opportunities for those who would otherwise be unable to attend.

Help Expand Access to ADHD Education

The future of ADHD care depends on ensuring that the next generation of clinicians, researchers, educators, coaches, and other professionals has access to high-quality, practical training.

The ILAT Global Summit Student Education Sponsorship Program helps reduce financial barriers by providing sponsored Summit registrations for eligible students who would otherwise be unable to attend.

Through the generosity of individuals and organizations, this program creates opportunities for emerging professionals to learn from internationally recognized ADHD experts and gain practical knowledge they can carry forward into their future work.

How You Can Help

Individuals and organizations are invited to support student access to the ILAT Global Summit by sponsoring one or more student registrations.

Sponsors may include:

- Community partners
- Academic departments and training programs
- Employers
- Faculty members
- Professional organizations
- Industry organizations

Every sponsorship helps ensure that financial barriers do not prevent motivated students from accessing valuable ADHD education.

Is my sponsorship contribution tax deductible?

At this time, ILAT is unable to issue charitable tax receipts for sponsorship contributions. Sponsorships directly support student access to the ILAT Global Summit and help expand educational opportunities for emerging ADHD professionals.

Am I registering myself for the Summit when I sponsor a student?

No. Sponsorships are processed through the same registration platform used for Summit registrations, so the form and confirmation receipt may appear similar to a ticket purchase. However, you are not purchasing a ticket for yourself, you are providing sponsorship support that allows an eligible student to attend the Summit.

Recognition of Sponsors

We are grateful to those who help make this program possible. Sponsors will be recognized during the ILAT Global Summit and in select Summit-related social media posts. Donation amounts will not be disclosed.
